ALARIC;
OR THE TYRANT'S VAULT.

A SICILIAN STORY OF EARLY TIMES

CHAPTER II.—CONTINUED.

At this juncture Bellerus returned in haste, and there was a look of trouble upon his brow. He closed the door behind him, and then turned towards our hero.

'Alaric,' said he, evidently striving to assume a calmness which he did not feel, 'have you any reason to suppose that your entrance into the city this evening was particularly noticed?'

'Why do you ask?' demanded the youth.

'I'll tell you,' answered Bellerus. 'I have just come from the inn near the Temple of Diana, where I overheard a conversation between two soldiers who had just come from the Southern gate. They said that a Greek vessel was seen upon the coast this morning, and that some one landed from her. I also made out, from their conversation, that the king had been informed of the fact, and that he had given orders that every stranger who entered the city should be watched, and intelligence of his whereabouts conveyed to him.'

'Then I may be assured that I have been followed,' said our hero; 'for I suspected it while on my way hither.'

'And if such be the case,' said Bellerus, 'we shall hear more from it.'

'But before we wait for that we'll take some steps of our own,' cried Ianthe. 'Some safe hiding-place must be found.'

Alaric was upon the point of speaking when a loud knocking was heard without, and a voice demanded entrance in the name of the king.

'Fly! fly!' cried Ianthe, seizing her lover by the arm.

'Hold,' spoke Bellerus, who became calm in the presence of this necessity. 'If he flies he will not escape now, for our house may be watched upon all hands; and if he is caught in the act of fleeing, a deeper and more deadly suspicion may fasten upon him.'

Another thundering knock was heard, and Bellerus started towards the door.

'We must meet it now,' he said, 'though I wish I had known your coming had been noticed. Ianthe, you had better withdraw.'

'Not while——'

'Hush! In this I must be the judge. For the good of him you love I bid you seek your own apartment.'

'Aye,' added the youth, leading her towards the inner court, 'do as he bids you. I shall be safe enough. At all events, I will see you again.'

He kissed her and blessed her, and she passed from the apartment just as the host unbarred and opened the outer door. She stopped and caught hold of her lover by the hand ere she left him, and, with a heavy fear upon her heart, she asked him to be careful.

'The thought of thee shall be inducement enough to that end,' he replied. 'And now may the gods be with us both.'

In a few moments more Bellerus returned, and with him came four soldiers. They were stout, hard looking men, whose hearts performed no other office than to furnish them with animal life that they might do the bidding of their master. One, who wore the uniform of a lieutenant, advanced from his companions and gazed into our hero's face.

'You entered the city this evening?' he said.

Alaric hesitated for a moment but during that short moment his mind was made up. He quickly judged that any falsehood might only injure him and he resolved to tell the whole truth.

'I did,' he answered.

'And you landed from a Greek vessel this morning?'

'Yes.'

'Then you will go with us to the royal palace.'

'But why is this?'

'Because the king has so commanded.'

'Shall I see him to-night?'

'We came not to answer questions—only to command your attendance at the palace,' said the lieutenant, gruffly.

'Our gracious monarch will evidently see you to night,' interposed Bellerus, who saw the flash of indignation in Alaric's eye, and feared that he might make matters worse by giving way to his feelings.

The youth saw the old man's meaning, and curbed his rising emotions.

'Are you ready to go?' asked the officer.

'At any moment.'

'Then we have nothing further to detain us here.'

Alaric put on his cap, and as they passed out through the narrow passage Bellerus found an opportunity to whisper in his ear:

'Be cautious—keep a guard upon your tongue—mention not Ianthe's name, nor suffer any allusion to her to drop from your tongue. Let us hope that the danger is not great.'

And yet there was a tremulousness in his tone—a terror in his very breathing—that belied the words of hope he spoke. Until this moment the youth had not felt serious alarm, but, as he caught the look of horror upon the honest artisan's face, the bolt struck to his own heart.

'The gods be with thee!' spoke Bellerus, as they reached the porch.

But Alaric made no reply. At that moment a weighty thought was upon him, and before he could call his senses back for an answer he was hurried out into the street. The officer walked by his side, while one of the soldiers led the way, and the other two fell in behind.

A variety of thoughts occupied Alaric's mind as he passed on through the narrow, dimly-lighted streets. He remembered how he had seen his father cut down, and how his brother had been butchered; and the same bloody tyrant who had done it had now sent for him. Is it a wonder that, with all his bravery, the youth felt a cold chill creeping about his heart as he approached the lair of the remorseless monarch?

CHAPTER III.

DARKNESS AND DOOM.

Pyrrho, king of Sicily, sat upon his throne of gold and precious stones, and about him were a few of the hardened, cruel, subservient men whom he dared trust. He was a middle-aged man; short and clumsy in stature; with a face broad and brutal in its expression, and strongly marked by dissipation and debauchery. If he had ever possessed the assurance of a brave man, he had lost it now, and his only hopes of safety were in the willing swords about him, and in the terror which his cruelty inspired. The light from three huge chandeliers of massive gold cast a strange lustre over the large apartment—the beams being here reflected from polished mirrors; there from pillars of marble and porphyry; and anon taking deeper hues from the gaudy tapestry that hung upon the walls.

'I would like to know who this stranger can be,' said the monarch, turning to his chamberlain. 'Ah—here comes the lieutenant. We shall see.'

There was a movement among the guard at the lower end of the chamber, and presently an officer approached the throne, leading Alaric by the arm.

'Is he unarmed?' the king cried, as his eye rested upon the youth's tall and sinewy frame.

'He is, sire. We found only a simple sword upon him, and that we took from him.'

A contemptuous look overspread the youth's face as he thus found a monarch so fearful, but when he gazed full upon the features of the tyrant who had slain his loved kindred, an expression of deadly hate swept over his noble brow, and a keen fire burned in his dark eye.

'Ye gods!' gasped the king, as he caught a full view of the youth's face, with this deep expression from the soul upon it, 'what have we here? Come no nearer! guard him well! Who art thou?'

Had the sword of death been at that moment suspended over our hero's head, and ready to fall at a breath, he could not have curbed the emotions that swelled in his soul! In all his nature there was not one principle or incentive that could lead him to bow and cringe before one whom he so utterly despised and detested. Had he thought of the future, he might have spoken differently, but he thought only of the present and the past—he thought only of the bloody wrongs that had been done, and he allowed his soul to have full sway.

'I am Alaric,' he answered, looking full into Pyrrho's face.

'Alaric! Alaric! What Alaric art thou?'

'Hold, sire,' interposed the chamberlain, who had been regarding the youth narrowly. 'Methinks thou shouldst know that face. He is the son of Orneus.'

'Ha! Now, by the gods, I know him!' cried the king, starting up from his seat, but quickly sinking back again. 'Art thou the son of the patrician Orneus?'

'When my noble father lived I was his son,' the prisoner replied.

'And when your noble father died you fled from the country?' said the monarch with sarcastic emphases upon the words he had repeated from the youth's speech.

'I did flee,' was the reply.

'And have you been absent ever since?'

'I have.'

'Where?'

'In Greece.'

'Why hast thou returned now?'

'To see the land of my birth.'

'Who came with thee?'

'I landed alone upon these shores, your majesty, and had no thought but to find a friend, and then, if need be, to leave the country again.'

'And who is the friend you sought?'

'A bosom friend of my early youth, whose influence extends not beyond the walls of her home.'

'Ah—a female, eh?'

'Yes.'

'And lives she with the artisan Bellerus?'

'I went there to seek her.'

'And there you found her?'

'I heard of her there.'

'Answer me!' cried the king, in a voice of rage. 'By the sacred crown of Jupiter, thou hadst better bite off thine own head than answer me again as thou hast done. Who is the maiden thou hast come to seek?'

Alaric hesitated ere he replied to this. He remembered the warning he had received from Bellerus, and he began to feel that he had been too rash in his speech. But he had no choice now. If he refused to answer, the king could easily send to the dwelling of the mason, and thus matters might only be made worse.

"She is the daughter of Bellerus," he finally said.

The monarch gazed into the youth's face for some moments without speaking. There was a look of deadly meaning upon his hard features, and his fingers moved nervously over his knees. At length he turned to his Chamberlain, and said:

'This is a curious freak of circumstance—But the young man is like a stranger in our city, and we must provide for him—at least for a while.' Then turning to Alaric, he added

'Since I have had thee brought here against thy will, thou shalt be provided for during the night.'

'I can easily provide for myself, sire.'

'Aye—but we do not choose that thou shouldst be put to that inconvenience. We have room enough, and to spare, and it will afford us true gratification to know that thou art cared for.'

Alaric could not mistake the meaning of these words. The look which accompanied them was a sufficient key to their import. But, he could do nothing now to help himself. He could only trust to circumstances as they should present themselves.

The king called one of his officers to his side and whispered something into his ear, and then turned once more to the youth.

'It is waxing late now, and we all have need of rest, so thou shalt be conducted to a place of safety until the morrow.'

'But, sire,' interposed our hero, 'why should you keep me here to-night? I can be found when you want me.'

'We are not so sure of that. But it is our will that you remain. Hippon, you will conduct him to a place of rest, and report to me when thou hast done it.'

The man thus addressed approached our hero, and placed his hand upon his arm.

'Come,' he said.

Alaric started as he heard the tones of that voice, for they sounded like a knell. The word was not spoken as speaks one who leads a guest to a quiet chamber.

'Go with him,' spoke the king.

Alaric turned, and was led away. In an ante-room his conductor was joined by four dark, sinister-looking men, who had more the appearance of common ruffians than waiters upon a king, and then he was seized by both his arms, and hurried on through a vaulted passage to a dimly-lighted corridor. Presently the officer, who was Hippon, the jailer, stopped at a deep niche, where a guard was posted, and procured a torch, by the glaring light of which he led on once more.

On, through dark and narrow passages—and down, down, down, long and steep stairways, the youth was led, and when his conductors finally stopped, Hippon opened a door of solid metal, which swung out from a jagged wall, and the prisoner was forced roughly in, and the massive door was closed. It was shut with a dull, heavy sound, the reverberations being drunk up by the solid walls as soon as they fell upon the air—and the prisoner was left in utter darkness. He closed his eyes, and then opened them again, to see if some glimmer might not be found to break the horrible gloom; but it was all in vain. He groped his way to the wall, and leaned against it for support, for there was no seat save the floor.

The youth was not long in making up his mind that he had been doomed to death. He knew the character of the monarch, and that no deed would be too evil for him. He knew, also, how fear could make the tyrant more cruel than before, and to what deeds of darkness the fear stricken usurper can descend.

It was a terrible thought and for a while Alaric was inclined to blame himself for what he had done, but when he came to reflect upon the transactions of the day, he could not see how the present result could have been avoided. It had flown from causes over which he could have exercised no control without the power of foreknowledge. He thought of Ianthe and wondered if he should ever see her again. The chances were against it, but he was not prepared to give up all hope. He had just started to grope his way around the slimy wall, when he heard the sound of footsteps without, and presently the moving of bolts fell upon his ear. In a few moments more the door of his dungeon was opened, and three men entered, one of them bearing a flaming torch. They were huge fellows clad in sombre garbs, and each bore a naked sword in hand.

Alaric recognized those garbs, for he had seen them years before, and he knew that only the executioners wore them! The moment his eye rested upon the grim visitors, he knew that his doom had been spoken, and that the time for execution had come. Instinctively he placed his hand upon his hip, but there was no weapon there—He was all unarmed, and seemingly powerless against the gigantic ruffians. The man who held the torch leaned it up against the wall, where a projecting point of rock helped support it, and then the three approached the prisoner.

"How now," spoke Alaric. "What is your business here?"

"A foul business, you'd say, if you knew it, my master," replied the leader of the infernal trio in an unfeeling tone, "but when its done we don't so well you won't know we've done it at all."

"I am to die!" the youth said, with his hands clasped upon his bosom.

"We've all got to die some time, and those who die first will get the sooner out of a very wicked world. And since you know what's coming I suppose you'll take it as easy as possible."

What a lifetime of thought and feeling was crowded into the next moment! The three gleaming swords were raised and the doomed youth saw them pointing surely towards his heart. There was no escape by flight for between him and the door advanced the workmen of death! There was no hope in his own strength of body and limb, for, unarmed as he was, the power opposed to him was unconquerable. So he leaned back against the reeking wall, and shut the horrid monsters from his sight.

The above is the commencement of Mr Cobb's great story, which is now being published in the New York Ledger. We give this as a sample; but it is only the beginning of this most interesting, fascinating, and absorbing tale—the balance or continuation of it can only be found in the New York Ledger, the great family paper for which the most popular writers in the country contribute, and which can be found at all the stores throughout the city and country where papers are sold. Remember and ask for the New York Ledger of November 13, and in it you will get the continuation of the story from where it leaves off here. If you cannot get a copy at any news office, the publisher of the Ledger will mail you a copy on the receipt of five cents.

The Ledger is mailed to subscribers at $2 a year, or two copies for $3. Address your letters to Robert Bonner, publisher, 44 Ann street, New York. It is the handsomest and best family paper in the country, elegantly illustrated and characterized by a high moral tone.

A DESTRUCTIVE WEAPON.—It seems a paradox, but it is nevertheless a fact, that the more deadly and destructive war is made the greater the economy of human life—the more certain the missile, the fewer the number on the death roll. Gunpowder with musketry and cannon destroyed the use of defensive armor—yet battles are now gained with less waste of life than in the days of the long bow, cross bow, and the deadly hand to hand encounter.

These considerations must be our excuse, on the ground of humanity and true patriotism, for calling more forcibly the attention of Government to a very important improvement of warfare. We do so the more earnestly as we believe it will afford us a means of improving our coast defence. * * *

The failure of the Lancaster shell makes it doubtful, if we succeed in manufacturing rifle cannon, whether they could be applied to anything but the propulsion of round shot. To increase the deadly nature of our round shot, with the same instrument, we divided our shots into parts, or contrived to burst it into fragments among our adversaries.

Seeing that we cannot rifle our cannon, because of the mass of metal we have to deal with, Sir Charles Shaw—the author of the invention which we now proceed to describe—proposes to divide our cannon itself as we did the shot. He replaces the field piece, cannon or howitzer, by a row of rifle barrels twenty-five in number. These are accurately placed on the same level, each barrel diverging slightly from the centre, and so that the volley of rifle bullets discharged from the barrels will cover a distance of about five yards at a distance of eight hundred yards. Sir Charles Shaw's rifle battery is indeed a reproduction of French infernal machine placed on wheels, and made far lighter and far more manageable than a light brass nine-pounder.

The implement may, therefore, be regarded as a rifled cannon divided into twenty five portions as destructive as grape or canister shot at 300 yards, the shrapnell shell at 850 yards, with its deadly aim extended as far as the rifle can reach. Conceive a battery of horse artillery with four of Sir Charles Shaw's infernal machines substituted for their guns. The rifle battery is equal in effect to twenty five rifles deliberately aimed not from a man's shoulder but from a fixed rest. It is no exaggeration, therefore, to regard one rifle battery, manned by three riflemen, as a fair equivalent for a company of soldiers firing from the ranks.—London News.

ACOUSTIC TUNNELS.—Another Wonder. In these days so full of wonders as the electric telegraph, the railroad, the daguerreotype, and a dozen other startling inventions, the public is constantly as in the days of Saint Paul at Athens, seeking for "some new thing" greater than the last. As the transmission of intelligence in a shorter time seems now the order of the day, I beg leave to send you a copy of an article from Dr. Dicks' works on the subject of Acoustic Tunnels for the transmission of sound, believing that great improvements can be made in them, especially since the discovery of gutta percha, and that we may be able some time or other to talk to John Bull across the great Atlantic Ocean. Experiments were made in Paris by M. Biot on the transmission of sound thro' the air in very long tubes, and through solid bodies. These experiments were made thro' long cylindrical pipes, which were constructed as conduits for fountains to embellish the city of Paris. With regard to the velocity of sound, it was ascertained that its transmission was ten and a half times as quick as thro' the air. The pipes were over one thousand and thirty-nine yards in length. M. Biot was stationed at one end, and a friend at the other, they heard the lowest voice so perfectly as to hear the lowest words and keep up a conversation on the subject of the experiments. They wished to determine the lowest point at which the human voice seemed to be audible, but could not accomplish it, words spoken as low as when we whisper a secret to another were understood, so that not to be heard there was but one resource—that of not speaking at all. Between a question and answer the interval was not greater than for the transmission of sound. The time in the experiment thro' one thousand and thirty-nine yards was about five and a half seconds. Reports of a pistol fired at one end occasioned a considerable explosion at the other, the air was driven out of the pipe so as to give the hand a small blow, and to drive light substances out of it to the distance of half a yard, and to extinguish a candle. Don Gautien, another savan, proposed to build horizontal tunnels, widening at the remotest extremities, and found, at the distance of nearly half a mile, the ticking of a watch could be heard far better than close to the ear. He calculates that a series of such tunnels or pipes would convey a message nine hundred miles in an hour. The advantages of such tunnels must be obvious; they might be laid down between railroad stations, across rivers, and even between cities. The day will probably come when they will be perfected so as to be used as much for long distances as they are now in many large manufactories, and even in dwellings, on a small scale, and known as speaking tubes.—Philadelphia Press.

The reported success of Mr Douglas in securing his return to the U S Senate by the incoming Legislature of Illinois, while it is a distinguished triumph over Buchananism, (accomplished, however, by the aid of some Republican votes,) and thus far a gratifying result, affords a subject for grave consideration as to the future of parties—and a subject which should be distinctly contemplated by Republicans. By the result attained Mr. Douglas secures a personal triumph over Mr. Buchanan, and becomes in fact the representative man of northern democracy. But what principles does he represent? Does he represent Republican principles? and are the northern democracy, under his lead, about to carry out Republican doctrines? If not, what doubt is there that Douglas himself, as the democratic leader, will be found true to all the traditions of the modern democracy, which, as Mr. Seward has well said, show that the party always has been true to the interests of the slave power? Does any one believe that Mr Douglas and his friends are going into the Charleston Convention, in 1860, as the friends and advocates of Republican doctrines—of the restriction of slavery, and of the ultimate emancipation of the slaves by constitutional means?—that they are going there as the opponents of the Dred Scott decision, and of the new Southern doctrine that slavery being introduced by the Constitution into all national territories, and there made a "sacred" right of property, must therefore be protected by the National government?—Does any one believe that Stephen A. Douglas will go into a National Democratic Convention at Charleston, South Carolina, and ask for a nomination upon a platform of opposition to these and other distinguishing democratic principles? It is evident that neither he nor his friends expect any such thing. When they appear in that Convention, they must appear as "National" democrats, or expect to be kicked out with little ceremony,—and they will appear in that guise. It will be seen, therefore, that if they lead the democratic party of the north, they cannot lead it upon any Republican track. If they should attempt to do so, it would at once cause the dissolution of the party at the South, and the consequent loss of all the strength upon which it has hitherto depended for victory in the Union.

Let those who regard the triumph of Douglas as an indication of a radical change in the course of the democratic party, reflect upon the real position of the Douglas men themselves. Do they profess to have seen the iniquity of former democratic concessions to slavery, or to be determined against any future concessions? Not at all. So far from that—they expressly re-affirm and uphold that crowning iniquity of the Pierce administration, in view of which and to oppose which the Republican party first sprang into existence, viz. the abrogation of the Missouri restriction against slavery. In commenting upon the present position of parties, a leading Douglas paper in this State, now before us, alludes to this infamous abrogation and its subsequent endorsement by the Cincinnati Convention, as follows:

> The democratic party in Congress, seconded by the democratic administration, fearlessly "took the responsibility" of repealing that "time honored" statute.
>
> The convention at Cincinnati met, cordially endorsed that administration, reaffirmed its whole foreign and domestic policy, and nominated Mr Buchanan, not to subvert, condemn, ignore or repudiate the policy of his predecessor, but TO CARRY IT FORWARD to a full development. * * * * The policy of Mr. Pierce, which in a mere ebullition of popular prejudice had been treated cavalierly, was fully, freely and cordially sanctioned by the popular vote.

And it is this "policy of Mr. Pierce," which the Republicans have denounced, and so justly denounced, as infamously pro slavery, that the Douglas men make the chief corner-stone of their edifice. Is it possible that the Franklin Pierce democracy of 1854 can be made to travel in the same road with the Republicanism of 1856 and of 1860? If so, will any one inform us wherein Republicanism would substantially and practically differ from "National" democracy? If not so, then is it idle to talk about Douglas democracy and Republicanism in the same breath. Senator Seward's great speech has shown us what modern democracy is, and is to be,—inevitably. It is to combat the last friend of slavery, under whatever leaders it shall march—or, it is to be destroyed as a party forever.

Without commenting further upon this subject to-day, we will simply call the attention of those who think Republicanism and Douglas democracy are destined to assimilate, to the manner in which the Bath Times (Douglas) announces the result in Illinois, as follows:

THE REPUBLICAN TIDE ROLLED BACK. It is with sincere pleasure that we record the splendid triumph of the sterling Democracy of Illinois, over the serried ranks of Republicanism, aided by the combined factions and treasonable disorganizers which have been attempting to break down the barriers in that State against the inundations of the black and turbid tide which has been setting westward from the sea shore.

This shows how Republicanism is regarded by the Douglas organs, and indicates the extent of friendship which Republicans are called upon to exercise for them, or for their leader.

The Bangor Union is extracting more sunbeams from cucumbers. It thinks the election results in Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey very encouraging to the democracy—notwithstanding the party, by the Union's own acknowledgement, has lost the entire State Governments and nearly every member of Congress in those States. Still the Union figures out democratic gains, by counting the heavy Know Nothing vote of last year against the democracy, and then taking the decline of that vote as evidence of democratic gains this year. If our neighbor can draw comfort from this view of the case, he is entirely welcome.

The Minnie rifle has proved terribly destructive in the late fights with the Indians in Oregon and Texas. Our men can fire at the Indians at such a distance as to be entirely safe. Unless the Indians learn the use of the Minnie rifle, they will be exterminated by it. Col. Wright says in a late letter to the Secretary of War, giving an account of an engagement with the Oregon Indians: "The men fired at the gallant red rascals as they would have fired at targets and the movements during the action were as orderly as on a field day. The enemy has lost courage, but he may change his tactics."

If this be correct, says the Providence Journal, we may be sure that the settlers will teach the Indians the use of the Minnie rifle. They cannot afford to have the Indians exterminated in this way. Every Indian is worth ten thousand dollars to the pioneers, that is, if he is regularly hunted, and in the old fashioned way of Indian wars. This picking them off with Minnie rifles will not answer the purpose and the needs of the frontier country, where the people derive half their support from the extravagance of the general government.

A FATAL VERDICT—TERRIBLE SUICIDE IN A COURT ROOM. In a suit decided at Columbus, Indiana, on Wednesday, Shrewsbury & Price vs Mewherter, a verdict was rendered for the former for $10,000. At the time of the announcement of the verdict, the Court-room was densely crowded. Mewherter took a position to the right of the Judge's desk, in front and between the jury box and the Judge, and here, in pursuance of his oft repeated declaration, took his own life, by shooting himself through the breast. Upon the discharge of the pistol he sprang into the air and fell dying upon the floor.

Various Items.

HOW PASSION MAKES A MAN A MURDERER. Two farmers, neighbors, living in Southfield, Mich, were such bitter enemies that they never spoke with each other but to quarrel, and frequently exchanged blows. On a recent Sunday, a cow belonging to one of the men strayed on the other's premises. The owner of the cow proceeded with a loaded gun to reclaim the animal, and was met by his neighbor with a club, who ordered him off. Upon this the owner of the cow levelled his gun and fired, killing his neighbor almost instantly.

SENT HIM OFF. A woman in New York got rid of a drunken husband by paying his passage to England and $10 for travelling expenses. Cheap enough.

LOW PRICED LUXURIES. At Brooklyn, last week, A M Johnson, a tinker, kissed the wife of a grocer, against her will, and was let off by the Court for $3.

A FOOLISH LOT. A few days ago, William Porter, a young man of talent, and inheriting a large estate from his father, Col W M Porter, committed suicide in Memphis, Tenn., for the reason that he could not support his wife as well as he wanted, his property being in the hands of guardians. He was only 18 years of age, and had been married over a year.

ANOTHER SET-TO OF THE FANCIES. At Lowell, on Tuesday, a couple of workmen undertook a round of fisticuffs—the result being that one got a jack knife in his bowels, and the other had one of his lips and an ear bitten off.

An indignant Democrat in Boston insists upon it that Burlingame will not be Heard in the next Congress.

DACOTAH. The balance of Minnesota Territory, insists upon having a territorial government. Her people have organized one to act temporarily.

There is a road down south which runs one train a day, drawn by a locomotive of about one coffee-pot power. The conductor is so polite that if a lady shouts out, "Mr Conductor, I should like a drink of water," he immediately jumps off, blocks the train with a stick, and attends to the lady.

The most valuable span of horses in the United States are said to be owned by Commodore Vanderbilt of New York. They are matched horses. They cost him $6000, and he has been offered $9,000 for them.

JUDGE DOUGLAS'S SLAVES.—The Chicago Press and Tribune says:

"We betray no confidence when we say that Mr Slidell, when in this city, declared that the condition of these slaves was a disgrace to the owner; that they were badly fed, badly clothed, and excessively overworked."

A Dutchman's heart-rending soliloquy is described thus: "She lofes Shon Mickle so much petter as I, because he's got a kouple tollars more as I has."

ANOTHER MURDER IN NEW YORK. Wm S Tompkins was killed on Saturday evening in an affray at Concert Saloon, Broadway. The proprietors and the entire audience of about 100 persons were arrested.

LOCAL AND MAINE NEWS.

VESSELS WANTED. There is a large quantity of lumber at this port, still to go to market this fall, and now waiting shipment; and at the same time there is an unusual scarcity of vessels. Freights have advanced considerably within a few days, and any vessels lying idle at ports on the river, or not far distant, could get full cargoes at remunerating rates. The weather is now (Nov. 8th) very mild in this region, and the river will remain open three or four weeks longer. At any rate, one if not two trips may yet be made to any of the northern ports.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT ON THE GRAND TRUNK. The night freight and cattle train from Island Pond to Portland, on the Grand Trunk Railroad, ran off the track near New Gloucester, yesterday morning about 2 o'clock, instantly killing the engineer, Mr Daniel Haseltine, and seriously injuring the fireman.—Five or six of the cars were smashed to pieces, and a large number of sheep and cattle were killed. The accident was occasioned by a slide upon the road. The engineer was found under the train, with only one slight bruise upon his face, and that not sufficient to produce death. The physicians think that his death was caused by a rush of blood to the head, occasioned by the shock. The fireman was thrown twenty or thirty feet from the train, and the engine nearly buried itself in a clay bank.

Our informant, Conductor Pitman understood that Mr. Haseltine formerly lived in Newport or Dexter, in this County, and leaves a family. He was about 38 years of age.

ATTEMPTS AT INCENDIARISM. We learn from the Portland Argus that two attempts at incendiarism were made last Thursday night on Washington street, in that city—one on the house occupied by "Madame" Davis, the other on the premises occupied by Peter Dunphy.—Both attempts were unsuccessful, having been discovered in season for the fire to be extinguished without creating any alarm.

SACRILEGE. Last week some irreverent villain stole the font, belonging to the Second Parish Church in Portland, from the house of the Sexton. He supposed it to be of silver, but was badly taken in—as it was only plated. Its greatest value was in its antiquity, which will avail the rogue nothing. The font had been in use fifty years.

NEGRO ROW. There was quite a row among some negroes, on Saturday night, at a place called the "Diving Bell," in the vicinity of Sandy Hollow. During the affray a murderous attack was made upon Peter Francis with an axe, and the back part of his head was split open. One of the men, the one, it is supposed, who made the attack upon Francis, was arrested by the police and taken to the lock-up.—His name is Eli Andrews. [Portland Argus

POLICE COURT. In the case of the liquor seizure from Messrs W K & E Miller, on Exchange street, the examination has been ordered for to day. The liquors are said to be of such a quality that if condemned they will hardly be confiscated for sale at the City Agency.

KICKED BY A HORSE. Patrick Lally, an Irish lad, about 12 years old, was kicked in the face by a horse on Main street yesterday forenoon, cutting a bad gash on his cheek near the eye. The wound was dressed by Dr F A Bean.

SHIPWRECK. Brig Kate Heath, from Cardenas, for Portland, with a cargo of sugar and molasses, went ashore at Cape Lookout on the 4th inst, and is probably a total loss. The crew were saved.

NEW MATERIAL FOR TANNING. The Maine Farmer states that at the recent State Fair handsomely tanned calf skins were exhibited by Messrs Harrington and Huss of South China, the time occupied in the tanning of which was a week. They had the appearance of the best French calf skins. The material with which they were tanned was the common sweet fern.

The Brunswick Telegraph learns that an invitation has been extended to President Woods to deliver the address which he pronounced at Prof Cleaveland's funeral, at the meeting of the Maine Historical Society, which is to be held in Augusta during the coming winter.

FIRE AT GRAND MANAN. A store and out-buildings and several small tenements owned by Lorenzo Drake, at the island of Grand Manan, were destroyed by fire last week, together with the sails and rigging of several fishing schooners, about 400 bushels of salt, and several hundred dollars worth of fish.

The St Croix Log Driving Company at its Annual Meeting on the 1st inst, made choice of the following persons for Directors,—as we learn from the St. Croix Herald: H F Eaton, F H Todd, B C Oates, Wm Duren, J S Hall, B F Waite, J B Eaton, R M Todd, John McAdam, G A Boardman, and W H Boardman.

During a severe thunder storm at Calais on the 31st ult, the house of Mr Almond, near the Rural Cemetery, was struck by lightning, but without material injury.

IN JAIL ON SENTENCE. The Farmington Chronicle says:

"There are now lodged in jail in this village on sentence, five criminals. The 'lion' of the drive is Rundlett, who will in a few days probably be removed to his more permanent home in Thomaston. The second in crime, if we are to judge by the length of sentence, is Albert W. Green of Phillips, convicted of larceny, and sentenced to six months in the county jail. Then we have John H Perkins of Chesterville, sentenced ninety days for assault and robbery, and George Bean of this village to sixty days for an assault and battery, and Hiram Judkins of Chesterville, to thirty days, for house breaking and larceny. Quite a show!"

[There are over forty prisoners in jail in this city waiting trial upon criminal charges—mostly for store-breaking, burglary, robbery or larceny.]

AGREEABLE—VERY. Under the head of 'an agreeable surprise,' the Aroostook Pioneer writes as follows:—"One day last week, as we were very busily engaged at our desk, poring over dry exchanges and pumping dryer editorials, the door of our sanctum was opened and a light step came bounding toward us. We turned to see our visitor, and as we did so, received a rich [illegible] from a pair of cherry lips that would have shaken the resolution of a stoic. Before we had time to collect our scattered senses, or express our thanks for the rich present, the fair donor was again at the door, and, as she vanished, with a musical laugh, she audibly exclaimed, "Will you, Mr Editor, put that in the Pioneer?" We should like to see the lady who has such kind communications to make to us; we are always ready to receive them, for they are emphatically what, in printer's parlance, is styled "fat matter."

T J Southard, Esq., of Richmond, is about commencing a new ship at that place, to be ready for launching next spring.

On Tuesday last, the outward freight train from this city consisted of thirty-five large cars, drawn by two engines, and laden with cattle, &c. This is the longest freight train that has ever passed over the Kennebec & Portland Railroad.—Kennebec Journal

THE RIGHT SORT OF IMMIGRANTS. Last Tuesday night Mr Walter R Gray of Bluehill, and Mr Robert Grindell of Bucksport, with their families, arrived at our village. On Wednesday, they located each of them a lot on No 12 R 3, to which we directed them, and on Thursday they established their residence up there in a shingle camp standing on one of the lots, and are now building a log house. This is an example of energy and go-aheaditiveness we like to see, and presents a marked and striking contrast to some arrivals we have seen here—homesick fellows who generally start for home the next morning after they arrive. We want men and women here—those who are not afraid of living in camps until they can build a better domic —Aroostook Pioneer.

Correspondence of the Boston Post.

A Washington Gambling House.

Washington, Oct. 25 1858. One of the most successful sportsmen of this or any other country was buried in this city on Sunday week.

He had been a resident of Washington some fifteen or twenty years, during which period he amassed great wealth by gambling, or, to use the mild and honest language of the Avenue, "he realized an ample fortune out of the successful operations of his house!" His "house" being the most elegant, and his bank the most weighty and substantial in the country, it has been for years the fashionable and fascinating resort of wealthy planters, fast Congressmen, aspiring diplomats, and ambitious sportsmen from every part of the world.

His "establishment" was upon Pennsylvania Avenue, between the National Hotel and the Capitol. Let us approach and look at it.

You enter by a door of variegated stained glass, which, by gaslight reflects all the colors of the rainbow. Ascending a flight of stairs you reach a door, pull the bell, and instantly a small aperture opens, and you are greeted with a pair of red eyes and a double row of ivory, set in black, which nominally belong to Sambo, but which, in fact, are the property of the proprietor. A glance suffices. You have filled Sambo's eye and are deemed passable. The door is at once opened and you are ushered into the ante room, the vestibule of hell! This room is not large, but elegantly appointed—the chief attraction being the sideboard, which is of solid marble and white as Diana's breast. Here are arranged in long and glistening columns decanters of cut glass, sparkling like brilliants, filled with the choicest nectar, and blushing to the very necks with the glowing vintage of the olden time. If you pass this station without tasting its sparkling but dangerous waters, it is not from any dearth of hospitality on the part of your persuasive host. The spacious "Sporting hall" is now visible. The floor is covered with carpeting from the Orient, of immense cost and marvelous beauty. The walls are adorned with superb paintings of the old masters and the new, while pendent from the windows hang curtains of embroidered lace, covered with golden tapestry of Oriental magnificence, with mirrors of mammoth size reflecting your form and features from a score of gleaming embrasures. Along the hall, at convenient distances, are ranged circular tables of polished rosewood, around which are seated numbers of thoughtful, anxious, dark-visaged men, who heed you not—their eyes having another and stronger attraction. One would naturally suppose this to be a theatre for wits, drollery and song, or bacchanalian revelings, or pugilistic encounters. Far from it. On the contrary all is hushed, silent, sepulchral—

"No real voice or sound,
Within those cheerless walls is found."

You are oppressed with the fear of stillness and awful silence which pervades the place—A laugh, a joke, or even a curse, would be a sensible relief. But you hear nothing of this. An occasional long breath or half subdued sigh is all that tells the ear that these mad devotees are possessed of lungs and life.

An hour's inspection satisfies your curiosity, and you are about taking your departure when a soft hand taps you on the shoulder, and a low voice: "Please don't leave, Sir, supper will be ready in a few minutes." At precisely 10½ o'clock the doors of the dining hall are thrown open, and "supper's ready," proclaims an immediate armistice between the combatants, and invites to a more healthy and rational duty. The long tables groan beneath their burden of gold and silver plate, and the heaps of delicacies which surmount and adorn them. Here are venison from the brown forests of Maine, turkeys from the broad savannahs of the West, canvas-backs from the placid Potomac, trout from Superior, and Salmon from the St John's, together with fruits, flowers and wines for every taste and from every clime.

The repast over, you are permitted, with a patronizing invitation to "call again," to make your retreat to the open air, there to thank heaven that you are not a worshipper within this magnificent yet cheerless abode.

One night's work, a few days previous to the close of the last session, made sad havoc among the coffers of his den. It is said that a distinguished Senator won on that night $120,000, which broke the bank and caused a temporary suspension. A new house, however, was soon purchased by him, and was magnificently decorated, when the "King of Terrors," the great unbeaten and unchallenged, stepped in and closed the game of life forever.

CHESS. The English papers report that a letter has been received from Mr Anderson, one of the best players in Germany, and the victor in the chess tournament held in London the year of the Great Exhibition, stating that he will spend his Christmas holidays in Paris to contend with Mr Morphy. He intends arriving in the French capital about the 15th of December, and will remain a fortnight. It is not, however, certain that the young American player can remain in Paris so late in the year.

THE BETS ON THE NEW YORK PRIZE FIGHT.—A letter from New York says Morrissey's wife, who is said to be the daughter of a wealthy man in Troy, won $2000 on the result of the fight, and his father-in-law won $30,000. Is not New York a great State, and Troy considerable of a village? Does it not speak well for the morals of a community, when a woman stakes money on the probabilities of her husband being able to beat and pound another man till he is hammered to a jelly and overcome?—Boston Traveller.

"My boy! my boy! you do very wrong to fish on Sunday." Boy—"It can't be no harm, sir; I ain't catched nothin."

CHOLERA.

A Certain Cure for this disease may be found in the use of Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, May 5, 1855.

Gentlemen—I feel under obligations to you for the benefit I have received from your invaluable Pain Killer. A few days since I assisted in laying out and burying one of our citizens who was supposed to have died of cholera. The next morning I was taken with severe vomiting, accompanied with cold extremities. Warm covering and hot appliances failed to restore warmth. My wife's family, who had used the Pain Killer with success during the cholera season in Buffalo, in 1849, advised me to take it. I took two doses at intervals of fifteen minutes, a fine perspiration ensued, and the next day barring a little weakness, I was well and have been since. Since my recovery I find that several of our citizens have used the Pain Killer as a remedy for cholera, pronouncing it good. I therefore take pleasure in recommending it to a still more extensive notice.

Additional California News.

St. Louis, Nov 8.

When the St. Louis Overland Mail of the 13th of Sept reached San Francisco, the mail via the Isthmus of the 20th had not arrived. Oregon dates of the 22d of September mention a credited rumor that two noted hostile Indian chiefs, Tuulichun and Dutil, had been captured and shot.

A messenger had arrived at Shasta with despatches from Fort Vancouver for Fort Reading. It was thought the despatches would change the destination of the troops en route to Oregon and Washington, the forces now there feeling able to keep the Indians in subjection without additional aid.

The Sacramento Mercury publishes a communication revealing the existence of a project to make a filibuster excursion into Sonora.

The Sonora correspondent of the Republican gives an account of outrages committed on the person of Mr. Market and his daughter, five years of age, by two Utes Indians, on the [illegible] Fork. Gov. Cummings had demanded the surrender of the offenders through the Indian Agent, Mr Hurd, which was refused. A requisition had been made on Gen. Johnson for a detachment of troops, who proceeded to the scene of outrage, and effected the arrest of the culprits, who were sent to Salt Lake City and placed in the custody of the U. S. Marshal.

An Indian was unintentionally killed, which may lead to further disturbances, in view of which a posse of military has been stationed at Spanish Forks for the protection of the inhabitants.

The District Court of Utah had adjourned to 1st Monday in Nov.

From Utah.

Leavenworth, Nov 4.

(Via Booneville the 7th.) The Utah mail arrived on Sunday.

Heavy snow storms are reported at Dead Creek, which had rendered the roads quite impassable for wagons.

The mail was packed on mules from the Big Blue, that stream being too high to ford.

The rain storms which have prevailed thro' that section for the past two weeks, extended 85 miles west of Fort Kearney, and passengers by the mail trains were being left behind.

No summary of news is furnished from Salt Lake city.

From Washington.

Washington, Nov. 8.

Gen. Walker's visit here is not directly with government. It is in part to ascertain the extent of the proposed British interference,—he is satisfied there will be no hindrance to peaceful emigration to Nicaragua, and denies the truth of the statement that there has been a sale of bonds or of the Transit route.—He also declares that part of the President's proclamation must have been founded on incorrect information; and further, that passengers leaving Mobile are expected to pay their own expenses, and act upon their own responsibility. The emigration is under the auspices of the Southern Emigration Company, which has been in existence six months, and which has branches in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Georgia. There is no clashing of interests between it and the Canal Company. Gen. Walker will probably leave for Mobile to-morrow, though it is not certain that he will go out with the first party to Nicaragua.

The following officers have been ordered to the Roanoke on the 20th inst., to relieve those of the St. Mary's now at Panama:—[illegible], Moore, Wells and Phelps, Surgeon, [illegible], Assistant do, Magee; Purser, Kitchie. [illegible] the list of Lieutenants has now been exhausted, every officer of that rank having been assigned to some duty.

From New York.

New York, Nov 8.

The members of the Castleton Staten Island Board of Health, five in number, have been arrested and held to bail for having voted for the resolution declaring the quarantine to be a nuisance, and calling upon the people to abate it. The amount of bail demanded was $1000 from each member. A complaint has also been served upon the Board of Supervisors of the County of Richmond by Board of Emigration, demanding judgment for $250,000 being the amount of damages arising from the quarantine outrages. Ray Tompkins, held for examination on charges of arson and riot in the affair of quarantine outrages, has been discharged.

Albert Willis, the Broadway gambler was committed to Prison to-day on charge of murder made against him recently by his servant. There is no clue yet to the name of the man murdered. Mr Busteed, counsel for Willis, got out a writ of habeas corpus, and brought the prisoner, this afternoon, before Judge Russell, who immediately discharged him.

Two murderers, Thomas Mulrooe and James McCormick, both sentenced to be hung on the 29th October, escaped from Sing Sing Prison Saturday night, and have not yet been retaken.

A private despatch from New Orleans says that on the 6th inst. the yellow fever had entirely subsided at Galveston.

Marine Disaster.

New York, Nov 8.

The bark Lamplighter arrived here to-day from [illegible], reports, Oct. 26, lat. 39.02 lon. [illegible], while blowing a gale from the south, fell in with the Spanish brig Alma from St Johns, with a cargo of fish, in sinking condition, had thrown over part of her cargo. She took from her the captain and crew, 12 in number and Mr W G Rankin of St Johns, N F, a passenger. They saved nothing but a chronometer, having had experienced a violent gale on the 24th.

Ship News

Boston, Nov. 8.

Steamer City of New York, from Boston for Philadelphia, fell in with, 6th, 1 A. M., off [illegible] Head, steamer Phineas Sprague, from Philadelphia for Boston, with loss of rudder, and towed her into Holmes' Hole, where she arrived.

Brig Rio Grande, of Bath, from Savannah for St John, N. B, put into Holmes' Hole, 8th, with three men sick.

Edward Savage, seaman, of Waldoboro, Me, died on board bark Indiana, Oct. 25th.

Various Items.

The Directors of the Boston Theatre met this afternoon, and passed a vote to advertise for proposals to lease that place from the 1st of March next, Manager Barry's lease expiring at that time.

Milledgeville, Ga., 8th.

A bill was introduced into the Legislature yesterday, providing for the repeal of the clause of the State Constitution prohibiting the importations of Africans.

Baltimore, Nov. 8.

Corrie and Cropps were arraigned this morning for murdering officer Rigdon, and the cases were removed to the County Court where they will no doubt find speedy justice.

Hon. Josiah Quincy Severely Injured.

Boston, Nov. 8.

Hon. Josiah Quincy, Senior, was seriously injured by being run over in Tremont St this afternoon. His injuries are said to be of a fatal character, and fears are entertained that he will not survive the night.

Later. Mr. Quincy was injured on the back of his head, by being thrown with great force upon the pavement, both legs being run over by the vehicle which came in collision with him. He was alive at 10 o'clock.

Fire, &c.

New Haven, Nov. 8.

The large daguerreotype case factory of Newell & Hall in Park street, took fire this evening and was destroyed. Part of the stock was saved. Over 100 persons are thrown out of employment. Loss about $16,000. Insured in Hartford, New London and Springfield offices.

The Douglas men of this city are in high glee at the result of the Illinois election.—Thirty-two guns have been fired, and a meeting has been called to meet on Friday evening to be addressed by McMasters and H. Clarke, of New York.

Hitchcock's Combination Suction and Force Pump!

FOR SALE, a new kind of PUMP—suction and force—different from any thing now in use, for durability, &c. You can draw water from a deep well and force it to any part of your buildings at the same time, in case of fire or any other emergency. You can have it with or without the forcing part. Any person, with a jack-knife, can do all the repairing that it will need for twenty years, and will not get out of order and is not liable to freeze up like other Pumps. It has received the first premiums at four State fairs, and numerous county fairs.

It may be examined at the Tin Shop of Albert Noyes, Central Street, Bangor, where I shall remain for a few weeks. Town rights for sale.

NOROMBEGA FISH MARKET.

BICKFORD RETURNS HIS PROFOUND thanks to the public for their generous patronage for the past thirteen years, during which time he has not grown stale, but only put on the finishing touch. As he has turned over a new leaf, to those who have paid their dues he gives the right flipper of fellowship, while those in arrears are requested to shell out and not continue their scaly line of conduct.

Bickford will still continue the management of this famous stand, and keep the hooks hanging and the marbles graced with the best that swims, besides the choicest preserved specimens of their species, among which may also be found

Fresh Cod, Smoked Herring,
Fresh Halibut, Tongues and Sounds,
Smoked Salmon, Napes and Fins,
Smoked Halibut, Pickled Fish,

N. JOHNSON,

No's 80 & 82 Main Street,

Has on hand a large assortment of

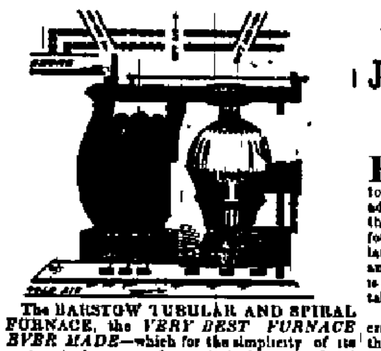
Cooking, Box and Parlor Stoves,

Of all kinds and sizes, among which is the celebrated

BAY STATE COOKING STOVE!

Which continues to maintain its high superiority over the numerous articles recently introduced to the public, claiming to be improvements over all others. This Stove is recommended to all those who prefer facts, which have been established by long practical experience, to mere advertising puffs based only on fiction. This stove has the smoothest and best castings of any now manufactured.

A DIPLOMA was awarded at the State Fair of 1857, in this city, for the above Stove, and also for the Furnace described below



The BARSTOW TUBULAR AND SPIRAL FURNACE, the VERY BEST FURNACE EVER MADE—which for the simplicity of its parts, which are very few and nicely adjusted, and their adaptation to their several purposes, the ease with which the fire can be kindled, and extinguished, and the ashes sifted without difficulty, and obviating dust about the cellar, cannot be excelled. So complete are they, indeed, that no change whatever is desirable in them, and they do not require to be patented in England or France, as there are no Furnaces used in either country, but open grates for burning coal.

American & Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington (under the Act of 1837.)
76 State St., opposite Kilby St.,
BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also, in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents." [illegible] 1858.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

From Sept. 17th, 1857, to June 17th, 1858, the subscriber in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

CANKER BALSAM,

For the Cure of

CANKER IN ALL ITS FORMS.

In Camden, Me., a Carpenter, afflicted with Canker in the mouth, tried various remedies, had recourse to physicians, &c., but could obtain NO RELIEF. His mouth was one complete Canker Sore. The Gums swollen and affected to the point of suppuration, and cleaving off from the teeth. A perfect cure was effected by one bottle of Dr. Pettit's Canker Balsam.

American Safety Paper

Manufacturing Company of N. Y.

Capital $500,000.

A. NICHOLAS, President. Office, 70 Wall-st.

A Perfect Security against all manner of Fraud or Counterfeiting on Paper—To Prevent Photographs and Anastatic Counterfeits, Erasures, Transfers or Alterations.

HAVING purchased the Patent for the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the Chemical Paper in America, invented and patented in England by HENRY GLYNN, a celebrated chemist and officer in the British army, it is hardly necessary to say that the Paper is recommended by Mr. Kent, Assayer of the U. S. Mint, Mr. Lyman of the New York Clearing House, and Meade Brothers, extensive and skillful photographers, 233 Broadway, N. Y. The latter say that no imitation can be made on a check or bank note printed on the Safety Paper. Below is our list of prices.

Bank Checks—35 cts. per lb.
Bank Bills—$18 for 1000 sheets
Bills of Exchange—$25 for 1000 sheets
Promissory Notes—40 cts. per lb.
Sight and Time Drafts—$25 for 1000 sheets.
Insurance Policies—40 cts. per lb.
Railroad Stocks and Bonds—40 cts. per lb.
Bank and State Stocks—40 cts. per lb.
Bonds and Mortgages—40 cts. per lb.
Wills and Deeds—40 cts. per lb.

For wrapping Silks and other fine articles it is excellent, as it prevents moths. 40 cts. a lb.

For Indentures and Agreements, 40 cts. a lb.

All State and County Records should always be printed or written on this paper, as the chemicals inserted in the pulp not only prevents erasure or transfer, but makes it lasting as time.

For Southern climates it is excellent, and much superior to any other; as the moistness of the climate does not destroy it,—the properties inserted in the pulp being a preventive. In all the Southern States, Cuba, the West Indies and the Central American States, no public records can be kept over 20 years, written on the ordinary paper, while the oils and other chemicals inserted in this paper makes it indestructible by the ravages of time. It is also proof against moths, rats and other vermin, which feast on and destroy all other paper now in use.

The Company have now in operation Mills in Morris County, N. J., of about 300 horse power, and are able to fill all orders for Paper at the shortest notice.

All orders for the Paper must be addressed to A. NICHOLAS, President of the Company, No. 70 Wall street, New York.

LINCOLN'S

WATER PROOF BLACKING,

AND LEATHER PRESERVATIVE.

Keep your Feet dry and you will seldom need a Physician.

IS it not a truth that when the feet are often wet, it is one of the greatest causes of colds and consumption? It is a truth that when leather is often wet and dried, it soon becomes hard, stiff, and cracks, but when it is water-proof this is remedied. By the application of this preservative, it remains soft, and entirely impervious to water.

After being engaged for 25 years in the manufacture of Leather in all its branches, and being often troubled with wet feet myself, I was led to experimenting on different compositions, and found it easy to make it water proof, but at the same time extremely injurious to the leather. At last by a chemical process, I discovered a preparation which perfectly harmonizes with the astringent properties with which leather is tanned. It will not only make leather water proof, but it likewise softens the leather, and it will Positively wear twice as long.

I have now used it for three years and a large part of that time have worked in a wet Tannery with my boots constantly in water, and have not had my feet wet during that time. I can therefore in all confidence, recommend it to the public as the best article in the market.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR!

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD,

Compounded entirely from Gums,

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE AND Liver Medicines now before the public.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Bilious attacks are cured, and what is better prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring prevents nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night loosens the bowels gently, and cures costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

One dose of two tea spoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while

One dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera.

Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite and makes the food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel Complaints yield almost to the first dose.

A few bottles will cure Dropsy by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

LIVER INVIGORATOR

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

Mix water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

Price One Dollar per Bottle.

Subjoined are the statements from some eminent physicians, of their effects in their practice.

AS A FAMILY PHYSIC.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, of New Orleans.

"Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. [illegible] but very certain and effectual in their action [illegible] which makes them invaluable [illegible] of disease."

FOR JAUNDICE AND ALL LIVER COMPLAINTS.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, [illegible]

"Not only are your Pills [illegible] purpose as an aperient [illegible] upon the Liver very marked [illegible] practice proved more effectual [illegible] plaints than any one remedy [illegible] rejoice that we have at length [illegible] the confidence of the profession [illegible]"

DYSPEPSIA — INDIGESTION.

From Dr. Henry J. Knox, [illegible]

"The Pills you were kind [illegible] all used in my practice, and [illegible] truly an extraordinary medicine [illegible] adapted to the diseases of the [illegible] to work upon them alone. I have [illegible] pepsia and indigestion with [illegible] other remedies we commonly use [illegible] mentally found them to be effectual [illegible] plaints for which you recommend them."

DYSENTERY — DIARRHŒA — RELAX.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of [illegible]

"Your Pills have had a long trial in [illegible] hold them in esteem as one of the best [illegible] found. Their alterative effect upon the [illegible] an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar-coating [illegible] very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children."

INTERNAL OBSTRUCTION—WORMS—SUPPRESSION.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, who practises as a Physician and Midwife [illegible]

"I find one or two large doses of your Pills [illegible] proper time are excellent [illegible] tion when wholly or partially [illegible] fectual to cleanse [illegible] so much the best physic we have that I recommend [illegible] to my patients."

THE LUXURY AND PROFIT OF HONEY MAKING.

Torrey's Bee Hive.

THE subscriber having purchased the right of making and selling Davis' Patent Bee Hive for the Counties of Penobscot, Lincoln and Sagadahoc, which has been received with so much favor, and taken the first premiums wherever exhibited, has introduced an improvement into the Bee Hive and is now prepared to make the same in connection with the Davis Hive, and also to sell rights to towns and individuals.

This Bee Hive thus improved, is admitted by persons acquainted with the honey making business to be superior to every thing yet invented for the purpose. It covers all the requisites for the profitable maintenance of the apiary, by providing for ventilation at all seasons of the year—room for the exercise and feed of the bee—convenience for the removal of excrement, for the proper separation of the swarms, and for the health and comfort of the workers.

The boxes used in this Hive for storing honey are the best adapted in their size for the market, holding from three to six pounds each.

The subscriber will at his place one hundred swarms of bees in exchange for bee hives and individual rights.

For sale, fifty swarms of Bees with the new hives.
